Summary: On September 19, 2001, Gail Slocum, Attorney, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), had a telephone conversation with ALJ Walwyn. Slocum stated that PG&E had very recently determined that it might be unable to implement the billing system modifications needed to accommodate the new TOU rate structure for the customers with less than 500 kW of load under the timeline described in the draft decision. Slocum explained that PG&E would be unable to make those same modifications without placing other critical billing system functions and activities at risk. Slocum asked the Commission to hold the item until next Commission meeting, in order to allow PG&E to meet with the Commission staff to discuss a timeline for A-10 TOU implementation.

Summary: On September 19, 2001, Douglas Kerner of Ellison , Schneider and Harris, counsel for Duke Energy North America (DENA), met with Cmmr. Bilas in San Francisco. Also present were Julie Halligan, advisor to Cmmr. Bilas, Carolyn Baker of DENA, and Brian Cragg of Goodin, McBride, Squeri, Ritchie & Day, counsel for Cabrillo I, LLC and Cabrillo II, LLC. Kerner advocated a cost-effectiveness approach to developing the criteria for system planning, including an express criterion considering gas requirements during adverse hydroelectric conditions. Kerner urged that the requirements for firm transportation service should not be made so onerous that few, if any, customers would be in a position to elect firm service. Cragg noted that the cost-effectiveness approach to system planning presented the Commission with an opportunity to maximize the benefits for the public as a whole.
